Bharat Bandh tomorrow

Normal life likely to be crippled from 6 am to 3 pm

People are seen filling their vehicles with fuel this morning ahead of tomorrow's bandh.

Tomorrow's bandh scenario

- Bandh called to protest against rising prices of fuel and daily essentials
- Bandh likely to affect normal life as ruling Congress-JD(S) is supporting it
- No official holiday for schools and colleges; decision by DC at 4 pm today
- Hotels will remain open in Mysuru; only moral support
- Petrol Bunks: Closure depending on situation
- Lorry Association: Only moral support

LIKELY TO BE AFFECTED: KSRTC operations, taxis, autorickshaws, commercial activities, cinema halls and multiplexes, shopping malls.

WHAT WILL NOT BE AFFECTED: Hospitals, emergency services, milk supply, medical shops, train services

Mysuru, Sept.9 (MTY&BCT)- Office-goers, travelling public and students in city could face a harrowing time on the first working day of the week as many services will be unavailable in the wake of nationwide bandh from 6 am to 3 pm called by the All India Congress Committee (AICC) tomorrow.

The Bharat Bandh, called by the alliance of Opposition parties and Trade Unions, is to protest against 'price rise', 'fall' of rupee against the dollar and other issues that 'affect' the people. With the ruling Congress-JD(S) coalition supporting the cause, the bandh is expected to cause hardship to people in Karnataka.

The bandh organisers have claimed that they have support from all the Left parties and other political parties besides Trade Unions. Pro-Kannada organisations, KSRTC Workers' Unions have also expressed support, they claimed.

In Mysuru too, the bandh is set to hit the common man hard. Tourist and taxi, autorickshaws will be off the roads. Hotels will be open as usual as the Mysuru Hotel Owners' Association has decided to extend only moral support to the bandh. At a meeting of the Association held this morning, the office-bearers decided not to close tomorrow as the hoteliers have already faced severe losses due to fall in tourist flow owing to floods in Kodagu and Kerala, said Association President C. Narayanagowda.

Though many educational institutions have decided to declare a holiday in Bengaluru, no such decision has been taken in Mysuru. "The Government has authorised the respective Deputy Commissioners of districts to take a call. We are collecting inputs from the Police and will meet at 4 pm today and discuss with the SP, City Police Commissioner and DDPI. The decision will be taken after considering the likely impact of the bandh," Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar told Star of Mysore.

"The Education Department has also made it clear to school management associations that there will not be a holiday for schools and colleges. We have asked them to wait for the communication from the Deputy Commissioner," he added.

State buses will also remain off roads as the KSRTC Staff and Workers Association have offered to support the bandh, therefore, services by all State-run Transport Corporations including KSRTC will be hit. The Association is backed by the All India Trade Union Congress (AITUC). In Mysuru, however, there is no official communication in this regard.

"We will start our operations as per schedule tomorrow. If the organisers block our way and damage the buses, we will have to pull out off the roads," said KSRTC Divisional Controller K.H. Srinivas and Mysuru Rural KSRTC Divisional Controller M. Vasu.

Ban lifted on tourist entry to Kodagu

Madikeri, Sept.9- The Kodagu District Administration has lifted the ban on entry of tourists to Kodagu with effect from tomorrow (Sept.10). Tourist entry to the flood-ravaged district was earlier banned till Sept.9.

In a press release, Deputy Commissioner P.I. Sreevidya said that the ban has been lifted from Sept.10 due to the decrease in rains over the past few days. Following this, a decision was taken in this regard at a meeting of Department officers on Sept.7.

However, at the same time, the DC has issued advisory asking tourists not to visit popular tourist spots such as Abbey Falls, Mandalpatti, Mutlu, Hammiyala, Hattihole and Thadiyandamol as the connecting roads, which were devastated by floods, are yet to be restored and it was dangerous to travel on such roads. The advisory has also asked tourists to strictly follow the instructions given by the District Administration and co-operate in the re-construction of Kodagu.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Averting the deleterious effects of global warming and climate change is an arduous task. A little less arduous task is disposing of dusty and musty old newspapers that have piled up over weeks and months. I dare not dump the whole lot of it when the junk dealer comes with his large sack to take away all that accumulated burden. I could do it if only I can keep my mind and eyes tightly shut. Even as sheaves of outdated newspapers are being salvaged and stacked together, I espy a broadsheet carrying a story headlined "Dry eyes on the increase; doctors blame exposure to visual media." It is an eye-opener of sorts. It is about how long-time exposure of the eyes to computer and mobile screens causes a medical condition called Meibomian Gland Dysfunction (MGD). It causes redness, dryness, dullness, irritation and fatigue in the eyes. Persons looking at computer screens, smartphones, iPads are particularly vulnerable. Of late, instances of the abominable MGD have risen from 35% to 58%, caution eye specialists. I sit up and start perusing the writing. Why did I fail to spot it? This story needs to be forwarded on WhatsApp, Facebook, Instagram and Telegram.

Artist creates 3D portraits of cats from felted wool

Tokyo: A Japanese artist is creating hyper-realistic 3D portraits of cats out of felted wool and it's hard to believe they are made of felted wool and not taxidermy masterpieces.

To achieve this level of realism, Wakuneco – which translates as "frame cat" – spends hours on end poking at wool with a needle to create solid layers that mimic cat fur, applying realistic glass eyes and finally adding the whiskers. After everything is just as she wants it, the 3D portrait is framed and sent to the owner who commissioned it.

And while not all of her clients are owners looking for something special to remember their pets by, many of her portraits are commissioned as a means of coping. Wakuneco currently offers her incredible wool felting skills through Yahoo Auctions, but only to Japanese customers.

Fashion brand makes sandals for sneakers

Beijing: Sankuanz, a Chinese fashion label has created sandals to keep your brand new sneakers looking flawless for longer which made quite an impact at the recently-concluded Paris Fashion Week, but the feedback wasn't 100% positive.

Sankuanz just came up with these bulky plastic and Velcro that can fit your already "sneakered" feet and protect them from, well, wear and tear, I guess, because I don't see these sandals doing anything if it starts to rain.

It's unclear whether Sankuanz plans to ever sell these bizarre sneaker-guards, or if they were just a crazy idea for the Paris Fashion Week event, but it definitely made an impact because fashion and footwear-themed news outlest can't stop talking about it.

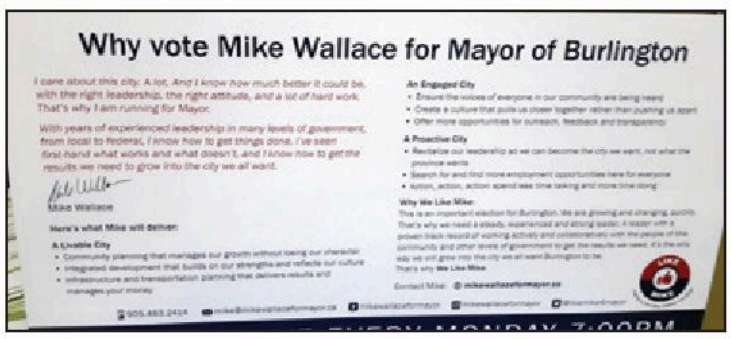
People elect the Mayor in this city, NOT the majority party



Sir,

'Who will be our Mayor?' This front page news headline in Star of Mysore dated Sept.4 made me to remember this pamphlet which I had picked up at my son's residence during our recent visit to Canada.

Look, who elects the Mayor there? It is the people of that city. It is meaningful and right as the Mayor belongs to the whole people of the city as this candidate has explained in his campaign pamphlet. Though the election is in October, candidates start their campaign months earlier explaining so well why people should elect him.

I also came across another candidate meeting groups of people in a Lakeside Park on a weekend explaining his objectives and seeking their support.

In contrast, it need not be elaborated how things happen here. People cannot expect anything better from our one-year Mayor elected by the majority party.

—K. Vijaya Kumar
V.V.Mohalla 5.9.2018

NOTE: Some years back there was a proposal made by NGOs and some politicians to have the Mayor elect directly by the people for a five-year term.

The reason was that the present one-year term of the Mayor does not give the Mayor the required time to complete the projects envisioned by him / her for the development of the city.

However, nobody took the idea forward because one-year term for a Mayor gives opportunity to all those greedy, ambitious politicians. For them the agenda is very personal, not the development of Mysuru city.

Stray horse bites youth near Court Complex

Mysuru, Sept.9 (MTY&BCT)- A stray horse bit a youth who was riding his bike near Mysuru Law Court Complex on Thursday evening. The youth has been identified as 31-year-old Harish, a Marketing Executive and a resident of K.G. Koppal.

The incident occurred on Sept.6 when Harish was riding his bike near the Court Complex. Harish came across two stray horses fighting with each other. One of Harish's friends was moving ahead on his bike.

The horses were knocking their heads together and were moving menacingly from one side of the road to other, and there was no way Harish could continue his bike ride though his friend managed to cross the fighting horses.

Harish slowed down his vehicle to let one of the horses pass by. But the horse suddenly turned and lunged at Harish and bit his right arm. In excruciating pain, Harish managed to wriggle out his arm from the jaws of the animal and jumped to safety. Fortunately, the horse did not attack him again.

Harish's friend, however, did not notice the animal attacking his friend and had moved ahead. He later turned his vehicle to see what happened to Harish. Seeing an injured friend, he took him to the Primary Health Centre at Krishnamurthypuram where the doctors administered Anti-rabies vaccine, Tetanus injection and Painkillers and was referred to K.R. Hospital.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Veterinarian at Mysuru City Corporation Dr. Suresh said that, it is rare for horses to bite a human being. Usually horses either bite or kick when threatened. This particular horse might have panicked because of traffic.

"We have given Harish Anti-rabies vaccine as it is the only treatment available for animal bites. This particular horse might not have rabies as rabid horses die within 72 hours of contracting the disease," he said.

It may be recalled here that last November, two stray horses ran amok on Chamaraja Double Road and Devaraja Urs Road forcing people to run for cover. Many commuters abandoned their vehicles and entered shops to take shelter.

When asked about the stray horse menace, Dr. Suresh said that owners abandon them after use. "We don't have a separate shelter for stray horses. If the owner of the horse is detected, we levy fine of Rs.500 per day. But it is very difficult to identify the owners," he added.

Action sought against construction of houses in Kuvempunagar Parks

Mysuru, Sept.9 (SBD&DM)- Upset over illegal construction of houses in parks, a city resident has complained to the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Commissioner seeking action in this regard.

Advocate B.R. Vasudev Aradhya in his letter alleged that houses have been illegally built in two parks of Kuvempunagar 'M' Block.

Pointing out that these illegal houses were coming in the way of joggers, he alleged that the house inmates were driving away the park visitors.

Accusing the inmates of practicing Black magic, Aradhya maintained that these parks were of house for the public and lied in shambles because of illegal houses, he said.

Wondering who gave permission for construction of houses in these two parks, he urged the authorities to demolish the illegal houses and take measures for developing the parks.

Aradhya further said that, he has also sent a copy of the letter to Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, Deputy Commissioner (DC) Abhiram G. Sankar, MUDA Commissioner P.S. Kantharaju, K.R. MLA S.A. Ramdas and local Corporator Sunanda Palanetra.

DC Abhiram G. Sankar reacting issue said that he had received this complaint during the phone in programme.

Admitting that there was encroachment of parks, he said that the occupants of houses in one of the parks have refused to vacate. Stating that these houses were in poor state, the DC said that he has directed the MCC Commissioner to inspect the parks.

Maintaining that the occupants cannot be evicted overnight, Sankar said action has to be taken only after a through inspection and in compliance of procedures.

Stating that, nearly residents have complained of nuisance by the occupants of houses in parks, the DC said that the occupants will be evacuated after finding out whether they have houses elsewhere. If not, the occupants will have to be provided shelter as per government norms, the DC said.

Mysuru, Sept.9- Mysuru-Chamarajanagar District Central Co-operative Bank (MCDCC) President S. Chandrasekahar has demanded suspension of the Bank's Managing Director (MD) D.B. Lingannaiah for transfer of Bank staff from Hunsur, Bilikere, Periyapatna and Bettadapura branches.

Chandrasekahar

In a press release, Chandrasekhar took strong exception to Lingannaiah's statements that the Bank President was trying to protect Hunsur Branch's Ramappa Poojar and other staff accused of misappropriation of funds to the time of crores of rupees.

Pointing out that, Lingannaiah had not sent a report or note to him on the alleged misappropriation of funds in Hunsur Branch, Chandrasekhar said he has not released press statements on the issue as he taxes not yet received, a report in this regard from the Bank's CEO.

But he was forced to issue this press release as he was receiving repeated calls from several newspapers seeking his clarification on the issue.

As per the Bank Board meeting's decision, he had relieved MD Lingannaiah and reported the matter to the Government, Chandrasekhar said.

"I would take appropriate action after I get a written report on the irregularities that is said to have taken place in Hunsur branch of MCDCC," he added.

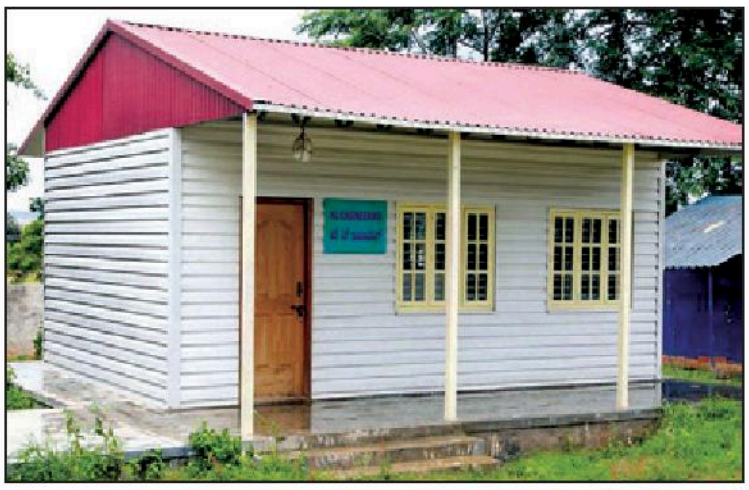
Composite material technology to construct houses in Kodagu

Kodagu Deputy Commissioner approves construction of 2 BHK demo houses



Models of composite material houses.

Madikeri, Sept.9- To provide the much-needed assistance to those who lost their homes in Kodagu, the State Government will use composite material house construction technology to complete construction.

Targeted to replace wood, steel and concrete block and dramatically shorten build times in the residential housing market, the technology is touted as the means to create more damage-resistant structures in areas prone to floods, landslides, earthquakes and termite infestation.

Kodagu Deputy Commissioner P.I. Sreevidya has approved construction of 2 BHK demo houses to be built using composite material. The DC, on Sept.6, approved the construction and has identified land at K. Nidugane and Madapura villages in Madikeri and Somwarpet taluks respectively.

Former National Aerospace Laboratories (NAL), Bengaluru, scientist R. Gopalan, who is also the Director and CEO of Society for Development and Composites, has been assigned the task to construct the houses.

Special Deputy Commissioner Jagadish said that the Society for Development and Composites has promised to construct houses within a month by using the latest technology. The work on levelling the land at Madapura in Somwarpet taluk and K. Nidugane in Madikeri taluk is under progress. "The houses have been designed to suit the environment in the district and will have two bedrooms, a hall, and kitchen," he added.

The houses, mooted by NAL scientist R. Gopalan, are light-weight and flood-resistant made of composite materials. Material used in light-weight combat aircraft will be employed to build the houses, to replace brick and mortar as construction material.

According to Dr. Gopalan, structures constructed using brick and cement increases the load on the soil, which is not good for houses prone to natural disasters. "Across the world, people are building houses using composite materials, which have high durability compared to traditional brick and cement. The weight of these houses is 1/100th of the traditional structures. Houses built using composite material can be constructed in just a few hours," he said.

Fibre Composite Panels (FCPs) are used to build structures without the need for concrete, wood or steel and with significant savings in cost and time to build and a standard house can be constructed from prefabricated elements in one to three days.

The FCPs are load-bearing, insulating panels with structural skins made of high-strength E-glass fibre fabrics impregnated with a fire-resistant resin. These construction elements support the structure and each other, eliminating the use of beams.

On the earlier plans of the Government to use pre-fabricated houses like Indira canteens to construct houses, Gopalan said pre-cast cement slabs used in Indira canteens are very heavy and require use of cranes to construct homes. Knowing the soil condition of the flooded areas, it is advisable not to use heavy structures in Kodagu, the scientist said.

Light-weight material gives excellent thermal insulation unlike Indira canteens, which will be like a hot oven. Gopalan, along with other scientists, travelled across Kodagu to assess the situation. The team has constructed 65 taluk hospitals in North Karnataka within a span of five months and has built houses in flood-affected areas of the region.

No takers for sheds

The model sheds that were kept for public display at Gandhi Maidan in Madikeri has received negative response from the flood victims. The Kodagu District Administration had planned to construct such sheds for the flood victims.

These sheds have been made out of zinc sheets and the flood victims feel that such sheets absorb heat and heat will be unbearable. They have also conveyed to the administration that there is no ventilation in the sheds and as such, it would be difficult to live in those houses.

An exclusive interview with Ace TV Show host Karan Thapar

"I was lucky I had a wife who liked the adult and child in me"–3

By N. Niranjan Nikam

Star of Mysore (SOM): You lost your wife Nisha Meneses when you were just 33-years-old. Why have you chosen to remain single, because, just after first 34 pages when you write about her in the book "Devil's Advocate," it touches a raw nerve in all of us?

Karan Thapar: She was also 33 then. Nisha died now 28, no 29 years ago. Why didn't I get married again? I will give you an honest answer.

SOM: Oh, you still have the wedding band?

Karan Thapar: Yes, absolutely, I have never taken it off; I will never take it off (with a lot of emotion). After Nisha died, this used to be her chain (pulls it out of his neck hidden in the close collar and shows it to me) and when I first met Nisha she used to wear this chain around her neck, right, and then she used to wear it for about a year and then she stopped wearing it. It was in her cupboard, when she died. I found it, I took it and I said to my father-in-law, can I keep this?

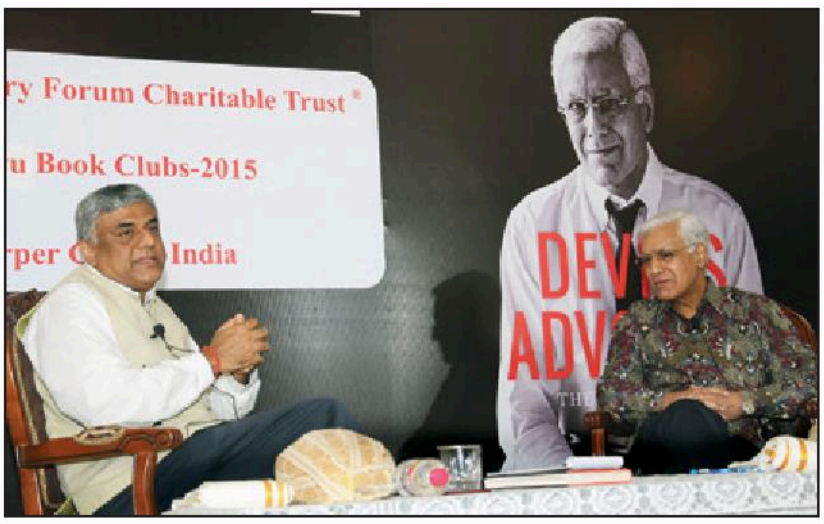
This is the memory of Nisha that I want to keep forever because when I first met her she had it and so I have worn this for 29 years and this (showing the wedding band) I have worn since December 3, 1982 and every single day I have worn this. It has never come out of my hand.

SOM: But why didn't you marry again?

Karan Thapar: Why didn't I marry again? I will tell you.

SOM: I was wondering because given the profession you are in and the opportunities you get to meet a lot of women…

Karan Thapar: I can give you the answer very honestly. Of course, I have had girlfriends; I have had brief affairs but I never married anyone because I realised that inside Karan there is a child as well as an adult. As you pointed out, as your Editor pointed out, Karan keeps doing this (bringing his fingers to the mouth) that is the sign of the child. There is a child and there is an adult and I was very lucky Nisha loved the child. Sometimes the child in Karan would irritate her, no doubt about it. She would often say to me, grow up for God's sake. She used to joke and call me Kitti Baba, that was her nickname for me. And when she used to travel (she used to travel a lot in her job) every month for ten days she would be out of London and I would always say to a few of my friends, "Who is going to baby sit me?" She used to say, "You have to grow up and learn to be on your own at home. It is not the end of the world." I would put all the lights on in the house, when she was not there because I hated being alone. And after she died, I said, Oh my God, I need someone to baby sit me all my life and I realised the child in me Nisha loved, most other women would not love the child, they would be irritated. I was lucky I had a wife who liked the adult and the child in me. She was special in that way. I don't think I have ever found and I don't think I will ever find someone like her. Nisha was a very, very, very special woman.



Karan Thapar in conversation with MP Rajeev Gowda. Pic. right: Nisha and Karan at their wedding on Dec. 3, 1982.

SOM: That is what touches everyone's heart.

Karan Thapar: She had much more successful job than mine and earned seven times more than me. She was a banker. We bought a flat that cost 100,000 pounds. All because of the mortgage she got which was about 3 per cent, while everyone else used to get mortgage at 7 and 8 per cent. And the whole thing became mortgage-free when she died because the bank insures it.

SOM: There is another incident recalled by Author and Film-Maker Vivek Agnihotri where he reveals that though you like the pilot episode of the TV serial 'Yeh Kahan Aa Gaye Hum' ….

Karan Thapar: (Interrupts) Apparently, I told him to remove Nandita Das.

SOM: No, Pallavi Joshi. You demanded dropping Pallavi Joshi because of her skin colour as she was dark. Did you really do this because it is nothing but racial prejudice and least expected from a liberal person like you?

Karan Thapar: I will be honest with you. I don't even know who Vivek Agnihotri is. I am really sorry. If this happened, I have no memory of it at all and (emphatically) I don't know who he is, I don't know where we met, I don't know what pilot episode this is. I know nothing about the story. I know about this because someone sent this to me as it was on a website or something. I don't think we ever met but if we met I might have forgotten.

SOM: The story is very interesting because you told him she is dark skinned and you cannot have her in that role and at that time you were with Hindustan Times television wearing these flashy clothes.

Karan Thapar: Let me tell you something (he suddenly picks up the book "Devil's Advocate" lying on the table, frantically flips through the pages and finally finds the page where their wedding photograph is), see the picture of Nisha, she is presumably the same colour as Pallavi Joshi. Have a look at it, I will show it to you. There you are, it is there, it is there. Nisha was Goan and she was darker than me. It did not matter to me at all. It did not matter to anyone. So, I can't outright say he is lying at all. If I had met him I have sadly forgotten who he is.

When Chidambaram refused permission to broadcast his interview...

SOM: Do you have any recollections, off the cuff, apart from A.R. Rehman which you have said was one of the toughest interviews?

Karan Thapar: Okay, I will tell you a story about P. Chidambaram, the former Finance Minister, which is not there in the book. Chidambaram got angry with me when he was Finance Minister, when I asked him a question about Arjun Singh's Bill that was seeking reservations for OBCs in the Universities.

And I pointed out to him, look, by some analysis Chidambarams are OBCs in some parts of Tamil Nadu and you will qualify. "Is it justified that a man with your standing, your education, your wealth that your children should qualify for OBC reservations and technically they will?"

He got very angry with that question. He didn't like it and said, "I am not going to give you another interview."

SOM: This is exactly what happened? This was how he responded?

Karan Thapar: Chidambaram does it regularly. He is a bit like a child. And a year later I rang him up saying I wanted an interview. He said to me, "Send your producer I want to lay down the ground rules."

I said, "look there is no need to send my producer. I will go myself because I am really doing the interview and not the producer."

Chidambaram

He said, "No, no, you will send the producer, you will not come. So my producer went and the ground rule was simple; we will do the interview but it can only be broadcast if I, Chidambaram, agrees."

In other words, he wanted the right to deny permission to broadcast the interview. So, I rang up Rajdeep Sardesai, who was the Editor of CNN-IBN those days and asked Rajdeep, who is a colleague and a friend, what do we do? Rajdeep said, "You tell me."

I said, "My feeling is, if you don't agree to the ground rules he won't give the interview. If you want the interview we have to agree to the ground rules. What is the worse that he can do?" Rajdeep says, "I can't believe that he actually sets this ground rule. Still he can stop us broadcasting." Then he said, "Ok we are taking a risk, so let us take it."

We went, did the interview and he had his Advisor sitting beside him, a man called Subashish Gangopadhyay and he asked him, "Is the interview ok?" Subashish got very embarrassed and said, of course, there is nothing wrong with this interview. Then Chidambaram said, "Fine, go ahead, you can show it."

Then Rajdeep and I put down a caption before the interview began, "This interview is recorded on the condition that Mr. Chidambaram has the right to refuse to broadcast without giving any reason."

And when the interview ended, we put up another caption which said, "Mr. Chidambaram had no problems with any content of this interview and so it is broadcast exactly as it is recorded."

When he saw that on air, he got very angry, he rang me up and said, "Why did you put up that, why did you put up the caption?"

I said, "Mr. Chidambaram, if you were right and honourable in making the request that you should have the right to veto, then there is nothing wrong in letting the world know. If yours is a dishonourable request, I have been dishonourable in making it public. But if yours is an honourable request, what is wrong in making it public?"

He got very angry and didn't talk to me for two more years !

The GST Council, in its 28th meeting held on 21st July, 2018, has recommended a number of changes in the GST laws for the benefit of small taxpayers. Some of the significant measures are:-

- Upper limit of turnover for opting for composition scheme to be raised from ₹ 1 Crore to ₹ 1.5 Crore.
- Composition dealers to be allowed to supply services (other than restaurant services) for upto a value not exceeding 10% of turnover in the preceding financial year, or ₹ 5 Lakh, which is higher.
- Levy of GST on reverse charge mechanism on receipt of supplies from unregistered suppliers, to be applicable only to specified goods or services or both in case of certain notified classes of registered persons, as recommended by the GST Council.
- Threshold exemption limit for registration in the States of Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, Meghalaya, Sikkim and Uttarakhand to be increased to ₹ 20 Lakh from ₹ 10 Lakh.
- Registration to remain temporarily suspended while cancellation of registration is under process, so that the taxpayer is relieved of continued compliance under the law.
- Commissioner to be empowered to extend the time limit for return of inputs and capital goods sent on job work, upto a period of one year and two years respectively.
- Simplified GST Return: The GST Council in its 28th meeting has also approved the new simplified return formats. Benefits for small taxpayers include:-
  - GST Council has approved quarterly filing of return for the small taxpayers having turnover below ₹ 5 Crore as an optional facility. Quarterly return will be similar to main return with monthly payment facility. But for two kinds of registered persons namely small traders making only B2C supplies or making B2B + B2C supplies, simplified returns called Sahaj and Sugam have been designed, wherein lesser details are to be filled than the regular return.
  - NIL return filers (no purchase and no sale) shall be given the facility to file return by sending SMS.
  - Taxpayer would have facility to create his profile based on nature of supplies made and received. The fields of information which a taxpayer would be shown and would be required to fill in the return would depend on his profile.
  - Invoices can be uploaded continuously by the seller and can be continuously viewed and locked by the buyer for availing input tax credit. This process would ensure that very large part of the return is automatically filled based on the invoices uploaded by the buyer and accepted by the seller.
  - The new return design provides facility for amendment of invoice and also other details filed in the return. Amendment shall be carried out by filing of a return called Amendment Return. Payment would be allowed to be made through the Amendment Return which will help to save interest liability.

Approximately 93% of the taxpayers have a turnover of less than ₹ 5 Crore and these taxpayers would benefit substantially from the simplification measures proposed.

These proposals will take effect after changes are made in the relevant GST laws by the Parliament and the Legislatures of the States and the Union Territories with Legislature.

Two-day 'Tejaswi 80' on Poornachandra Tejaswi

Dignitaries seen releasing the books 'Bangari' by Varalli Anand and 'Tejaswi Sikkidaru' by K.S. Parameshwara at the Mini Auditorium in Kalamandira premises here yesterday.

Mysuru, Sept.9 (PM&US)- A two-day programme titled 'Tejaswi 80' commemorating the 80th birth anniversary of writer late K.P. Poornachandra Tejaswi organised jointly by Abhiruchi Prakashana, Maanava Mantapa, Niranthara, Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha (KRRS), Mysore Film Society and other organisations was held at the Mini Auditorium in Kalamandira premises here yesterday.

The programme featured screening of a documentary 'Mayaloka' created by wildlife photographers Krupakar and Senani followed by seminars on Tejaswi. A two-day photo exhibition of birds caught on lens by Tejaswi also opened at Suchitra Art Gallery in the premises.

Inaugurating the programme, environmentalist Nagesh Hegde opined that Tejaswi was a glowing light with a diverse personality. He contended that the multi-faceted talents of Tejaswi were matchless. He observed that there were many avenues to excel and achieve in the country but regretted that many youngsters were looking at opportunities abroad.

Guests taking a look on the exhibits of birds caught on lens by Tejaswi at Suchitra Art Gallery.

Continuing, Hegde opined that on the pretext of development and modernity, the original local culture and tradition are getting eroded. He observed that impulsive purchase was on the rise among people today. He regretted that scores of living species have been destroyed owing to unscientific developments. He recalled that Tejaswi used to observe minute details and movements of living species and capture them on his lens.

Two books 'Bangari' by Varalli Anand and 'Tejaswi Sikkidaru' by K.S. Parameshwara were released on the occasion.

The programme also marked the 25th anniversary of Abhiruchi Prakashana.

KRRS leaders H. Basavaraj, P.S. Tanuja, Theatre Artiste K. Muddukrishna, Social Activist Ugranarasimha Gowda and others were present.

North American audience in for a musical treat by Mysore Violin Brothers

Come September, a lilting everlasting tune makes one sway and dance. This September, music-lovers living in the United States of America are set to sway and dance to the violin music of Mysore Brothers, Vid. Mysore M. Nagaraj and Dr. Mysore M. Manjunath who are embarking on yet another tour of the USA.

It may be recalled that Dr. Manjunath recently had the honour of performing the first ever Indian music concert at the coveted Oxford University and the Royal Palace of Milan.

Violin Maestros Nagaraj and Manjunath, the musical 'Princes of Mysore' as they were fondly called by Bharat Ratna Pandit Ravishankar, are sons and disciples of Vid. Mysore Mahadevappa and as child prodigies stormed the music world and are continuing to do so with their amazing talent and extraordinary musical virtuosity.

The amazingly gifted and dedicated violinists of today are going to be performing in multiple venues spread across the continental USA during the month. One scheduled concert which has the Brothers excited is the one to be held in connection with India@70 celebrations organised by the Embassy of India in Washington DC. A few other prestigious venues which are all set to be enthralled by the lilting violin music are the Rubin Museum of Arts in New York, World Bank, a workshop and concert at the reputed University of North Texas. There are many others included in the hectic itinerary of the Violinist Brothers and the team — Vid. Patri Satish Kumar on the mridanga and Vid. Giridhar Udupa on the ghata.

North American audiences and students of South Indian classical music can eagerly look forward to be soaked in musical bliss and gain some insight into the nuances and niceties of our system of music in the academic workshops.

We wish the brothers, the true cultural ambassadors of India, safe travel and eagerly await their next concert in their hometown during the Dasara festivities.

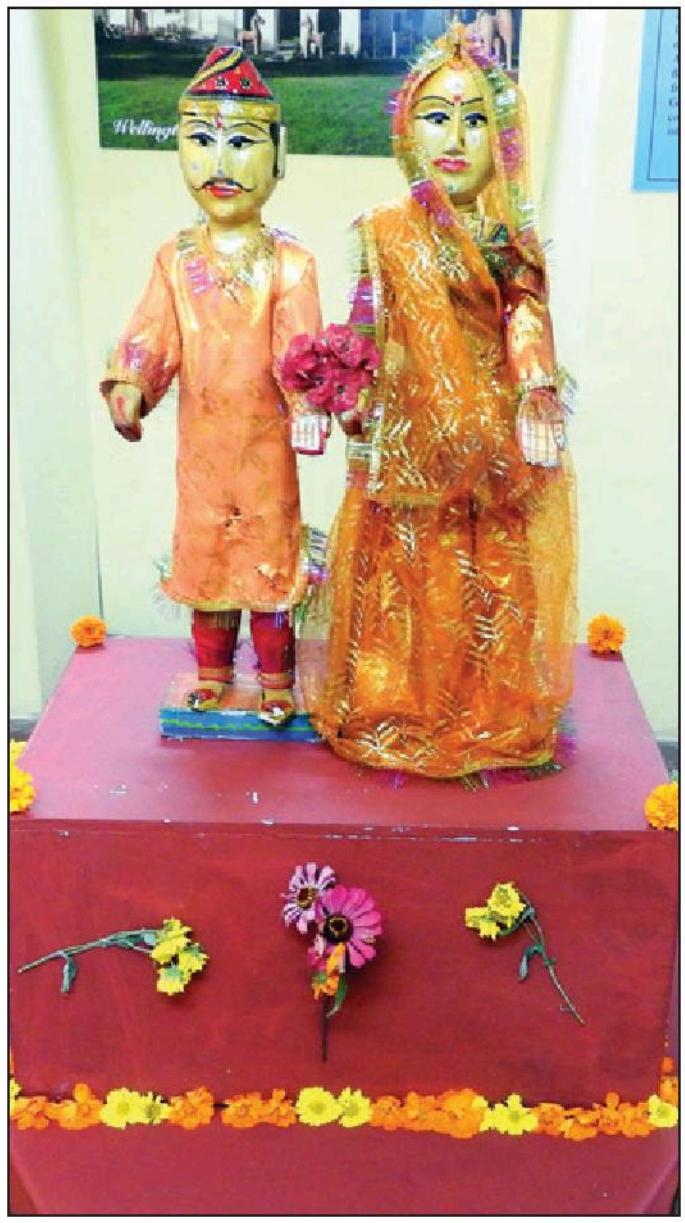
Gangaur

images from Udaipur on display at IGRMS



In continuation of its popular museum series 'Exhibit of the Month,' Indira Gandhi Rashtriya Manav Sangrahalaya (IGRMS), Southern Regional Centre (SRC), Mysuru, has kept on display Gangaur (images of Eshwar Ji and Gauri Ji), a Folk object from Udaipur, Rajasthan.

The object was inaugurated at Wellington House on Irwin Road in city by the Officer-In-Charge, J. Vijay Mohan on Sept.6. The exhibit will be on show throughout the month of September 2018.

About Gangaur Festival

The festival celebrations occur almost round the year in Rajasthan. Gangaur is a largely female-centric festival and most of the festivities, the pujas are conducted by women. It is celebrated in honour of Gauri, the Goddess of abundance. Young girls adorned in their best clothes pray for a spouse of their choice. The married ladies pray for the welfare of their husbands.

The celebrations at Bikaner, Jodhpur, Nathdwara and Jaisalmer are full of pomp and are a must-see. Girls worship the Goddess throughout the preceding fortnight. Colourful images of Gauri are taken out in procession accompanied by the town band.

The festival commences on the first day of Chaitra, the day following Holi and continues for 16 days. Festivity consummates on 3rd day of Shukla Paksha of Chaitra Month. Fairs (Gangaur Melas) are held throughout the 18-day period.

The festival reaches its climax during the last three days. The images of Gauri and Isar are dressed in new garments especially made for the occasion. Unmarried girls and married women decorate the images and make them look like living figures. At an auspicious hour in the afternoon, a procession is taken out with the images of Isar and Gauri, placed on the heads of married women. Songs are sung about the departure of Gauri to her husband's house. The women bid farewell to Gauri and turn their eyes and the Gangaur festival comes to an end.

London, Sept. 9- K.L. Rahul took a magnificent catch at mid-on during the second day of the fifth Test against England to become the first-ever cricketer to take 13 catches in a Test series in England. K.L. Rahul achieved this feat on Day 2 of the fifth Test against England at The Oval.

Stuart Broad, who was batting alongside Buttler, tried to hoick Ravindra Jadeja over the mid-on for a boundary shortly after lunch. However, Broad miscued his shot and K.L. Rahul showed great athleticism to cover quite a ground as he ran backward and stretched full body to complete the catch. South Africa's John Ikin previously held the record of 12 catches.

Rahul Dravid had taken 13 catches in the Border-Gavaskar Trophy in 2004/2005 in four matches, while K.L. Rahul has 13 catches to his name in five matches.

Australia's JM Gregory leads the list of most catches in a series with 15 catches. He registered the record during 1920/21 Ashes series. Greg Chappell stands second in the list with 14 catches.

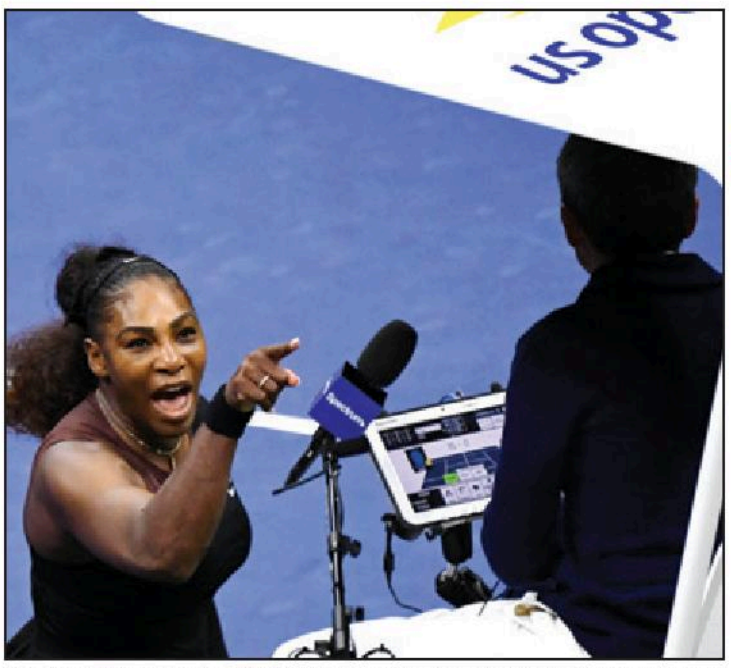
Naomi Osaka claims US Open title

after Serena Williams meltdown



Serena Williams of the United States yells at chair umpire Carlos Ramos in the women's final against Naomi Osaka of Japan.

New York, Sept.9- Naomi Osaka became the first Japanese to win a Grand Slam singles title on Saturday as her idol Serena Williams angrily imploded, calling the chair umpire in the US Open final "a thief."

Osaka, 20, triumphed 6-2, 6-4 in the match marred by Williams' second set outburst, the American enraged by umpire Carlos Ramos' warning for receiving coaching from her box.

When a second code violation for racquet abuse was handed out to her — along with a point penalty — Williams exploded. She tearfully accused him of being a "thief" and angrily demanded an apology from the official.

"You're attacking my character," she said. "You will never, ever be on another court of mine. You are the liar," she fumed and Ramos handed her a game penalty for a third violation — verbal abuse — that put Osaka one game from victory at 5-3 in the second set.

Williams won the next game, and continued her tearful re-monstrations with a supervisor on the changeover. But Osaka — who displayed not only a stellar game but remarkable poise throughout — held serve to seal a historic win for her country.

Williams, seeking a first Grand Slam title since the birth of her daughter Olympia on September 1 2017, was denied a 24th Grand Slam title that would have matched Margaret Court's all-time record.

As the pro-Williams crowed booed the trophy ceremony announcer, Osaka was tearing up herself, but Williams urged the spectators to show the young champion respect.

Dasara Jumbos under special diet

Rangaraju (extreme right), the assistant to veterinarian Dr. D.N. Nagaraj, is seen checking the ingredients before giving them to cook. Picture right shows Rangaraju checking the cooked food.

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Mysuru, Sept.9- The Dasara elephants, which have arrived in city from various elephant camps to participate in the world famous Jumboo Savari and housed in Mysore Palace premises, is being given special care and are on special diet.

The elephants are being given nutritional food twice a day so that the elephants could gain weight, strength and stamina to participate in the grand finale, the Jumboo Savari by walking a distance of about four kms from the Mysore Palace to the Torchlight Parade Grounds in Bannimantap.

What is given: At present, the first batch of six elephants, led by Howdah elephant Arjuna, is being provided nutritional food and additional supplements twice a day at 5.30 am and 5 pm to increase their weight and strength. They are given Urad grain, Green Gram, Wheat, Boiled Rice and a mixture of Beetroot, Carrot, Radish and Cucumber with cooked onions.

How it is made: Special and utmost care is being taken while cooking food for these Dasara guests as a small mistake would create a lot of problems to the elephants and hence, Rangaraju, the assistant to the veterinarian had been made in-charge of it.

A separate shed has been constructed to cook food for these elephants near Sri Kodi Someshwara Temple in the Palace premises and food is being prepared in large vessels, which begins at 10.30 am. First, Urad grain and Wheat is cooked in the large vessel to which Green Gram and onions are added which will be cooked again for about two-and-a-half hour and kept aside for an hour. At about 3.30 pm, the cooked food is spread on large plates and the cooked food is made into large balls (mudde) which is given to the elephants before the commencement of training in the evening.

After the training gets over, food is again cooked at about 7 pm and is stored in the store room which will be locked after 9 pm. The next day morning at about 5.30, the cooked food is again made into large balls and given to the elephants before 6.30 am, following which the jumbos will be taken for training.

The quantity: To provide nutritional food twice a day for our Dasara guests, 70 kg of Green Gram, 70 kg Urad grain, 70 kg Boiled Rice, 70 kg Wheat, 70 kg Carrot, 70 kg Beetroot, 70 kg radish, 70 kg Knol Khol and 70 kg Cucumber is required everyday and about 15 to 25 kg of nutritional food is given for one time.

But, Arjuna, who carries the Golden Howdah during the Jumboo Savari is being provided 25 to 30 kg of food for one time and all tuskers are given one kg of butter everyday. Arjuna is being given one-and-a-half kg butter everyday. This apart, each elephant is given 450 to 600 kg of Banyan leaves, 250 kg green grass and 50 kg dry grass.

Apart from providing the above food, the elephants are being provided with additional supplement of 35 kg which is a mixture of paddy, jaggery, coconut, groundnut, salt and other items. The ingredients are mixed well in a vessel and the mixture is placed inside dry straw and given to these elephants.

Everyday, these elephants are provided drinking water thrice. The elephants consume about 250 to 300 litres of water daily. Water is given after they consume food at 5.30 am before leaving for training, in the afternoon and before going to the training in the evening.

No training on Amavasya: On every Amavasya day, Dasara elephants are not brought out of the Palace for training. Even in elephant camps, elephants are not let out to the forest for grazing during Amavasya; Reason: According to some Mahouts and Kavadis, there will be slight changes in the climate which may have adverse effect on the elephants. Hence, as a precautionary measure the elephants are kept in their sheds on Amavasya day.

Meanwhile, Veterinarian Dr. D.N. Nagaraj told SOM, "as we do not want to question their belief and hurt their sentiments, we do not force the Mahouts and Kavadis to take the elephants for training" and added that a day's rest for the elephants is needed. Hence, there was no training today, Dr. Nagaraj said.

In order to increase the strength of the elephants, nutritional food and supplements are being given. The staff are keeping a hawk eye on the health of the elephants. We have already commenced giving nutritional food to the first batch of six Dasara elephants and preparations are going on to provide the same food for the second batch of elephants. Though Arjuna has the capacity and strength to carry the 750 kg weighing Golden Howdah on his back, special care is being taken to make him more stronger.

—Veterinarian Dr. D.N. Nagaraj

To increase the appetite and physique of Dasara elephants, multivitamins are being given. Limited nutritional food is provided initially which will be increased day-by-day. As Arjuna will be carrying the Golden Howdah on his back during the procession, he is being given more food than other elephants. From the day training of carrying the wooden howdah begins till the Jumboo Savari day, more quantity of food is given. Utmost care is being taken while preparing the food and following instruction from the Veterinarian, the quantity of food would be increased.

—Rangaraju, Assistant to the Veterinarian

Bonded labourers rescued at Bylakuppe

Periyapatna, Sept.9- In a crackdown on bonded labour, Periyapatna Taluk Administration officials on Friday rescued alleged 14 bonded labourers who were locked up in a hut.

The bonded labourers, who hailed from Tumakuru, Hubballi and Dharwad, were reportedly working at farms in Tibetan colonies at Bylakuppe in the taluk.

Niranjan and Umesh from Arasinakere in the taluk are said to have brought these labourers and made them work in large farms near Bylakuppe, which they had taken on lease for growing ginger.

The two, after completion of work in their farms, used to take these labourers to farms belonging to Tibetans and make them forcibly work there. The labourers were also allegedly assaulted for refusing to work.

Following a complaint by a Hunsur based NGO, Periyapatna Tahsildar J. Mahesh, Taluk Social Welfare Officer Ramegowda, Labour Officer Arun Kumar and other officials raided the hut and freed the labourers who were locked up.

In a statement to Bylakuppe Police, the labourers said that they begged for alms at Periyapatna bus stand and were prepared to catch a bus, when Niranjan and Umesh caught hold of them and locked them up in the hut. Following their rescue, the 14 labourers, including a dumb person, have been sheltered at a pre-matric boys home at Hunasawadi.

Assistant Commissioner K. Nitish, who visited the rescued labourers at the shelter home, announced Rs.20,000 as relief to each of them. Strongly objecting to the Tibetan refugees action of leasing out their land provided by the Government to others in violation of law, the Assistant Commissioner said that the Government would take back 25 acres of land from them.

Meanwhile, the Police have taken one of the accused Umesh into custody and have launched a manhunt for the other accused Niranjan and his associate Shankar who have gone absconding.

Security agencies asked to be cautious while appointing Security Guards

Mysuru, Sept.9- The Police Department has asked Security Agencies to be cautious while appointing security guards.

Addressing a meeting of Private Security Agency owners at his office here recently, Internal Security Wing Dy.SP K.R. Virupakshegowda explained the procedures to be followed while appointing security personnel.

Cautioning the agencies against recruiting illegal Bangladeshi immigrants, he advised the agencies to check the background of every person who would be recruited.

Pointing out that there were inputs on appointment of persons from North-East without checking their antecedents, Virupakshegowda warned of action against such agencies who show calousness in following procedures.

Asking the agencies to collect all necessary documents from the candidates, he said that the documents must be submitted for Police verification and the candidate be subjected to medical examination. Observing that private security agencies have earned a fair name among the general public for their services, the Dy.SP, citing several instances where security personnel themselves were involved in crimes, directed the agencies to recruit security personnel only after a thorough check of their background. Representatives of over 40 security agencies from Mysuru, Hassan, Kodagu, Mandya and Chamarajanagar districts attended the meeting.

Annual Kodava Convention of North America held

Community members collect Rs. 35 lakh for rehabilitation work in Kodagu

Mysuru, Sept.9 (BCT) - The annual Kodava Convention of North America was recently held in Myrtle Beach, SC, also known as the Golf Capital of the World. Over 370 Kodavas gathered at the Double Tree Resort by Hilton in Myrtle Beach, the venue of the grand two-day event.

The festivities began a day in advance with the making and rolling of 'Kadumbutt', a traditional rice dumpling eaten in Kodagu. The event was held at the house of Kambeyanda Dr. Ramesh and Dr. Leela. The hosts were Kodavas of Carolinas with support from community members from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Georgia.

On the first day of the convention, a variety of games and entertainment events were organised for all age groups while the performers got together (many of them practicing in person for the first time after months of co-ordination over social media). The informal pre-convention had more than 350 guests who let their hair down and partied late into the night.

While talented children like Tarana Mukkatira (violin) and Kanishk Mukkatira (piano) showcased their talent, seasoned performers like Namitha Achchandira enthralled the audience with her dance moves. Besides, there was an impromptu dance performance by 5-year-old Vianca Kallengada with some moral support from Anwita Monnanda that stole the show.

A morning walk was organised as part of the convention which not only promoted health and wellness but also helped raise funds to help the educational needs of economically challenged children in Kodagu. The second day's main event started with the traditional lighting of the lamp by Dr. Kambeyanda Ramesh and Dr. Leela. Avinash Chottangada did the invocation in chaste Kodava language. A special mention was made about the victims of the recent floods and landslides in Kodagu.

Thaliyathakkibolcha and Baalopaat added the Kodava traditional elements to the event and helped showcase some of the traditions to our younger generation. Aiyappa Kechamada and Aashiq Paruvangada were the masters of the ceremony.

The ceremony started with prayer song by Kallichanda Kaveri from Denver and was followed by multiple cultural events including songs and dances. A quiz competition on Kodagu, its land, people and culture was organised by Nithan Thimmaiah Monnanda.

Gina Konganda, Founder President of Kodava Koota, spoke about the organisation and listed its achievements that include helping the Sri Ramakrishna old age home at Ponnampet in Kodagu, funding the legal expenses to evict illegal settlers in Devakad at Valnoor and planting about 10,000 saplings in Kodagu.

Besides, the first High School Achievement award ($1,000 and a plaque sponsored by Kodava Koota) was presented to Paruvangada Bopaiah, son of Paruvangada Kuttaiah and Pooja. Kodava Koota which has been running a fund-raising campaign to help redevelopment of Kodagu and the affected people leveraged the opportunity to collect money that will be used to assist those affected. Over 50,000 dollars (INR Rs. 35 lakh) have already been collected and more money will be collected for rehabilitation.

Dr. Kuliakanda Sannu and Dr. Nalini, Alemada Geetha Kiran, Mukkatira Naina Udai, Baduvanda Dr. Changumani and Dr. Shobha, Kandera Deepthi Sharath, Kolera Shriti and Tarun, Mandepanda Uthappa, Chendrimada Deepa and Bopanna, Chottangada Rupica and Avinash were in the core team that organised the convention.

Community members of four countries participated in the convention and 27 States in the United States of America were represented. Over 174 Kodava families were present. The next annual convention will be held at Boston.

She has been selected for the State Award among the 11 teachers in the High School category. She was conferred the Best Teacher Award at District-level in the same school in 2016.

She has been in the profession since the last 16 years and teaches music to over 400 students. This apart, she conducts special classes after her school hour that has enabled many students of her school to bag prizes in many competitions.

Soumya has great concern for society and a case in point to prove this is that years back she rescued a 6-year-old nomad girl child who was unaware of the fact that her mother was dead. Sowmya took the child in her arms and arranged for the cremation of her mother. The child is now studying in first PUC.

She is providing financial assistance to many poor students to complete their studies. She also provides money for their medical needs. She has developed a garden for the students and also fought to save two giant trees from getting chopped on her school campus.

Sarkari Hiriya Prathamika Shaale Kasaragodu 'Success of film beyond expectation'

Mysuru, Sept.9 (RKB&NNN)- The aim of making this movie was to see that importance is given to mother tongue as the medium of instruction and bringing awareness about stopping closure of Kannada medium schools and Sarkari Hiriya Prathamika Shaale Kasaragodu, has achieved success beyond our expectations, said the film's Director Rishab Shetty, expressing his happiness.

"I have achieved my aim of bringing to the fore the problems of Kannada and Kannadigas in the border area of Kasaragodu. Our purpose was to tell the story in a simple way and make the viewers think about it. It was a challenge for me to do the movie with only children as actors," he said, addressing a press conference at Patrakartara Bhavan, here yesterday.

In the beginning there was apprehension as to how the movie would fare, but today there is so much demand that 150 movie theatres are screening it. Kasaragodu is an emotional issue. All these days, those who were not talking or writing about it have started writing about the cinema and it has become a big topic of discussion on social media. Hence, it looks like our purpose has been served, he said.

However, with the success of the film, the responsibility has also gone up, said Shetty. Child actors Sampath, Ranjan, Mahendra and Producer Pramod Shetty were present.

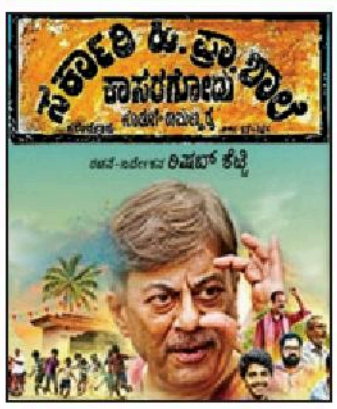
EDITOR'S CHOICE



"Sarkari Hi. Pra. Shaale, Kasaragodu, Koduge: Ramanna Rai (Govt. Higher Primary School, Kasaragod, Donated by: Ramanna Rai)" is a fictional film which takes us back on a nostalgic journey to our childhood days, school life and stages of adolescences where we had our first crush and all other first time life experiences. Altogether it is a fun filled take on the system, society and people in the perspective of children.
